

Manage faculty agreements, workloads, and pay—faster and more accurately—with one integrated tool

Anthology® Student's Faculty Workload Management (FWM) capability helps administrators validate all faculty assignments, stay within institutional limits, and generate payroll-ready earning lines—all in one place. With simple integration with HR and payroll systems and built-in reporting tools, FWM delivers faster processing and improved accuracy.

Validate workloads with confidence

With Automated Workload Validation, FWM validates instructor workloads for both teaching and non-teaching activities to ensure compliance with institutional teaching or curriculum policies. Staff can assign teaching loads and process compensation with confidence, knowing validations are consistently enforced with less administrative burden and fewer manual errors.

Manage pay and contracts with flexibility

Easily manage pay calculation, pay generation, and contracts for instructors, including part-time and adjunct faculty, with the flexibility needed for diverse academic environments. Earning lines can be generated, confirmed, and integrated with HR and payroll systems for faster and more efficient processing.

Streamline faculty teaching agreements with ease

FWM's Teaching Agreements feature makes it easy to manage faculty assignments each term. Use customizable templates and automated approval workflows—with eSignature options—to quickly send, track, and finalize agreements. Designed to fit different faculty types, agreements are stored securely in the system once approved, saving time and reducing manual follow-up.

Balance faculty loads across terms NEW!

FWM's new load banking feature gives institutions more flexibility and faculty more options regarding their workload from one term to another. With this tool, administrators can load balance assignments between terms or across academic years, making scheduling easier and supporting long-term planning for faculty.
